

APA Citations & References – 7th Edition (Basic Guide)

- In-text citations include page numbers or other locators for all specific parts cited: p. 10, pp. 10-15, chapter 3, figure 2, para. 9, and the like.
- Ideally, use direct sources. If you must cite a source used by another, identify the originator in your text: “Judd referred to... (as cited in Payne, 2016, para. 1).”
- If two authors (or first authors) share a surname, include their initials in your in-text citations.
- Multiple in-text citations are combined as (Bargesen, 2006; Heisig, 2011, p. 75).
- List sources alphabetically, double-spaced, with a hanging indentation, on a new page headed “References” at the end of your paper.
- For unknown (not corporate) authors, use the title to begin the reference entry. In citations, use the first few words of the title, italicized for books or reports, otherwise in quotation marks, as (“St. Francis Xavier,” n.d.)
- Classical texts with standard sections (the Bible, Qur’an, etc.) and personal communications may be cited in-text and omitted from the References list.
- If an author appears more than once, list the sources chronologically; if the same author appears more than once with the same year, use “1999a,” “1999b.”
- If an author appears first among several on a source, any single-author entries by the same person are listed above the joint publication, regardless of date.
- If necessary, after the title of a web-based, multimedia, or other unusually formatted source, include [Powerpoint slides], [Video file], [Bibliography], [Transcript], or the like.
- Use a retrieval date when the source is likely to change over time (like a wiki).
